

Commissioner Bolio, a Vermont native, has been part of the Vermont Department of Taxes since 2011. Beginning as a seasonal temporary employee in the Taxpayer Services division, Craig answered phone calls from taxpayers and processed tax returns for both personal and corporate income taxes. Beginning in 2014, Craig was part of the team that built and launched Vermont's tax processing system, VTax, first as a Business Analyst and then as Project Director in 2015.

Craig was appointed Deputy Commissioner under Commissioner Samsom in 2018, Acting Commissioner in mid-2019, and appointed Commissioner by Governor Scott in December 2019. As Commissioner, Craig strives to help the Department deliver on its mission to help taxpayers understand their tax obligations while fairly and efficiently administering Vermont tax laws. He's also helped the Department establish core values of service, integrity, growth, and community, and updated Department goals to include being a model for service-oriented tax administration, reducing the tax gap, and making the Department the best place to work in Vermont state government.

Craig has a Bachelor of Arts in Economics and Political Science and a Master of Business Administration from the University of Vermont. He enjoys spending time with his wife Kristen, and their dog, Frankie.
