

Act No. 136 (H.227). Professions and occupations; property inspectors

An act relating to licensing and regulating property inspectors

This act requires the Office of Professional Regulation to license and regulate property inspectors. Requirements for licensure include education, an examination, experience in property inspections pursuant to a training program, and national certification. The act's transitional provisions allow, for a limited time, people meeting certain practice experience to be eligible for licensure without meeting all of the licensure requirements.

Multiple effective dates, beginning on May 22, 2014