

Care Alliance

for Opioid Addiction

How It Works

Summary

The Care Alliance for Opioid Addiction uses a Hub & Spoke Model to monitor and care for each patient's progress during Medication Assisted Therapy (MAT), and to ensure that the person's care is effective, coordinated and supported.

To enter into care, a person is referred to a regional opioid treatment center (Hub), where patients are stabilized and an assessment is made to determine the appropriate treatment (methadone or buprenorphine) and placement (Hub or Spoke):

Regional Opioid Treatment Centers (Hubs) located around the state treat patients who require methadone, or who have especially complex needs. The Hubs also provide oversight to the Spokes.

Coordinated Treatment (Spokes) for all other patients is provided by a number of MAT prescribing physicians located around the state. Patients being treated within the Spoke system who may need more intensive services are referred back to a Hub.

Each patient treated at a Hub or a Spoke is overseen by a physician and supported by nurses and counselors who work to connect the patient with community-based support services.

Depending on the patient's needs, Support Services may include mental health and substance abuse treatment, pain management, family supports, life skills, job development, and recovery supports.
