

Act No. 124 (S.177). Public safety; Vermont National Guard; nonjudicial discipline

An act relating to nonjudicial discipline

This act establishes a process for the Vermont National Guard to impose nonjudicial discipline for minor military offenses as an alternative to courts-martial. The process includes that a commanding officer notify a service member of the officer's intent to impose nonjudicial discipline and the ability of the service member to consult with an attorney; to call and examine witnesses and submit matters in defense; to have his or her case heard before a nonjudicial discipline panel; and to appeal a nonjudicial discipline decision.
