Whereas, today's young children are tomorrow's voters, workers, taxpayers, and parents, and

Whereas, a good start helps ensure both a child's and Vermont's future prosperity, and Whereas, the quality of early childhood experiences establishes either a sturdy or fragile foundation for all development that follows, and

Whereas, child development is community development as well as economic development, as healthy, capable young children are the building blocks of a solid and productive society, and

Whereas, although 85 percent of a child's core brain structure is formed by the age of four years, less than nine percent of public investments in education and development is made by that time, and

Whereas, all Vermonters want their young children to grow into solid community members and active participants in our economy, and

Whereas, concerned Vermonters will gather at the State House on March 13, 2013, to discuss with their state legislators increasing accessibility to and affordability for all Vermonters of high-quality early child care, health, and education services, now therefore be it
