Prior to the merger of his firm with LandVest in 1995 where he is a partner, he owned and operated Round Top Woodlot Management, a VT consulting forestry firm, for 18 years after his graduation from forestry school.

While he serves on the LandVest Corporate Management Team his responsibilities within LandVest primarily focus on the forest management and consulting side of the business. This occurs on over 1,700,000 acres of management in ME, NH, VT, NY, & PA, supervising a forestry staff of 36 foresters and 13 administrative staff. This management includes the supervision of over 750,000 acres of conservation easement lands. LandVest achieved recognition as a FSC Group Certified Manager in 2014. He fortunately still gets to spend time in the woods, his place of choice.

Carbo works out of LandVest Timberland's Newport, VT Office and lives in Albany, Vermont with Emily, his wife of nearly 38 years, a Glover, VT 5th grade teacher. Carbo & Em own a conserved 1930 acre forestland tract where Carbo likes to spend his time. He and Emily have two sons Benjamin, 32, a doctoral candidate at UConn and professor of Human Rights at Trinity College in Hartford, CT, where he lives with his wife Kristen, an attorney for the state of CT and 18 month old son Simon. Samuel, 29, a UMO Masters of Education graduate is currently employed as a Humanities teacher in Irasburg, VT. He lives in Orleans, VT with his wife Bridget, a Sutton, VT Humanities teacher.
