Subject: VT lawmakers consider climate change resolution | Two more items

Hi Shap ... Just informing you about this email ...

* * * * *

Good Afternoon, Senators and others,

Concerning the Burlington Free Press article “ VT lawmakers consider climate change resolution “ ... and the proposed Resolution by the Senate Committee on Natural Resources and Energy ...

Two more items ...

- It should be enough to know that about 97% of scientists agree that the recent acceleration of Climate Change is caused by humans.
 - AGREED, almost ... " The resolution's detractor — mainly former Sen. John McClaughry, founder of the Ethan Allen Institute — said that some environmentalists are vastly overstating the problem. He said that global warming has been occurring for thousands of years, and that human activity will do little to curtail it. “
 - BUT ... Even though Global Warming has been occurring for thousands of years ... and that human intervention will do little to curtail it ... The problem about the recent acceleration of Climate Change , and the facts that extreme tragic reprehensible behavior of humans has caused this, is NOT overstated.

- AND ... As Bill McKibben says, even though we are perhaps even failing, so far ... We must continue to try, very hard.
 - I believe the above. We must try our extreme best ... to allow our grandchildren, at least, to enjoy a reasonably decent enjoyable life ... in the ?15? years we have left.
- If the above is not enough, consider this ... Of all the organizations on Our Planet , there are two 2 which take knowing about the future, and planning for it, to be vital ... All the insurance companies ... And, The Pentagon .

Very Very Sincerely ... Peter H. Bauer
