

FY 2017 Homesharing in Vermont

A Common Sense Approach: Neighbors Helping Each Other

WHAT: HomeShare Vermont and Home Share Now help the State of Vermont meet two important goals by assisting our aging neighbors to stay at home, where they want to be, while simultaneously helping others find an affordable place to live.

WHO: While there are no age or income restrictions for homesharing, most people sharing their homes are older adults or persons with a disability while most people looking for housing can't afford market rents.

FY 17 Return on Investment

In FY 2017, the state of Vermont provided $151,411 of general funds and a federal match of $175,752 to support homesharing in Vermont. This investment of state funding allowed individual Vermonters to save over $1,121,000.

Homesharing provided approximately 36,847 hours of assistance to older adults and others. This represents a savings of over $459,000 for those sharing their home and their families if they had to hire help.¹

By sharing their homes, low income seniors and others received over $241,000 in rental income to help them make ends meet.

The average rent of a homesharing match was $266 with 30% of matches paying $0 rent. Using the difference between market rents and homeshare actual rents, it is estimated that homesharers saved over $662,000 in rental expenses.²

Fifteen years ago homesharing services were available only in the greater Burlington area. Now, through two organizations, HomeShare Vermont and Home Share Now, over 60% of Vermont's population is served. Total service area currently consists of 7+ counties and demand is statewide.

"A Vermonter's Guide to Homesharing"

To assist Vermonters outside of our service area, we provide a do-it-yourself guidebook, "A Vermonter's Guide to Homesharing" and are available to provide consultation and support to all who call with questions or need guidance. Homesharing programs are few across the United States, and Vermont has the largest geographic coverage of any state in the country.
