Afterschool & Summer Nutrition

Without sustainable enrichment programs during out-of-school time, Vermont kids go hungry

Without programs and transportation, children cannot access afterschool and summer meals, even when they are available.

The lack of afterschool and summer learning & nutrition programs in Vermont jeopardizes low-income children's

- Low-income children gain weight during the summer when programs and meals are not available
- Low-income children lose 2-3 months of math and reading skills every summer they don't have access to programs and meals
- 2/3 of the achievement gap is attributable to a lack of afterschool and Support funding for afterschool and summer programming to close the achievement gap and prevent hunger and malnutrition for the 40,000 low-income children in Vermont.
