

Denise, could you post this as a letter of support for H.189

Sam Young,

Thank you. My feeling is when a wife or husband should be able to take the absentee ballot home to their partner. One spouse/partner will request the ballots we can only give them their own and have to mail the other one so that person gets the mail the next day and takes the ballot home they still get the ballot, a lot of these people are requesting a ballot for a spouse/partner who is working . Also a child should be under this law also, I had a son in college before the General Election his mother came in to get a ballot for him as he was going to be home on the week end we got the ballot out in time and the student got to vote but it could have been a no vote. I do not believe in just friends neighbors but people living in the same house. The law has made it so simple for people to vote even same day why does it have to be difficult to get a ballot for a loved one. I feel so bad when I have these elderly people come in and request two ballots and we have to say we can only give you yours, he or she will have to come get their own or we can mail it. We have a lot of voters come in and vote but we also have lot who pick up their ballot and then mail it in or drop it off after they are sure of who they want to vote for. I know JP'S can take a ballot to an elderly person but some want to be independent and not ask for help.
