

Racial Justice is ensuring that all people no matter what their skin tone color is have the same opportunities as white people. Furthermore, it is an active movement demanding institutions (traditionally racist in their actions) to dismantle policies, cultural myths, and inequalities that still negatively impact people of color everyday here in Vermont. It is about holding people accountable for past injustices and demanding people's needs be met in a timely fashion. I do not have personal experience as a white women with racism personally here in Vermont."
