WestRock's sustainability platform is built on our commitment to what matters—our co-workers and communities, delivering outstanding results for our customers and investors, living by our values and protecting our environment. This platform grew organically from the things we were already doing because they are ethical and responsible, and because they advance our mission to become the industry's premier paper and packaging solutions provider. We then challenged ourselves to reach the next level in these areas and translated our findings into our 18 voluntary sustainability targets for 2025. The title of our report, RESPONSIBILITY TO RESULTS, sums up the way we think about sustainability at WestRock: By operating and growing our business in a fiscally, socially and environmentally responsible way, we will produce exceptional results for our stakeholders and ourselves now and into the future.
