The continuation of this facility has the ability to impact many children's and families lives and only a positive manner. I hold dearly on to the many precious memories that I have of this facility. I only hope that such memories maybe a part of future childrens lives.

13	6/6/2020 13:07:18	Bonnie Sargent	sargentfarm@vermontel.net	Reynolds, an outstanding teacher at Aunt of current older south student	My hope is for your voices to be heard and acted on. This is so wrong in so many ways, the Campus Children's School is outstanding, I have visited, seen what these lucky children are doing and how they are learning, it is of paramount importance for them to continue. When the State of Vt has been facing childcare issues for years and the State University closes their day care with no notice is totally unacceptable. Our tax dollars help fund our University and the least that could be done is to stay open while other avenues are explored.

44	6/3/2020 9:24:56	Amy	amypowers@gmail.com	Community member	I received notice that UVM's Campus Children's School was closing because our family was on the waitlist. Finding quality childcare is such a challenge, now more families have to start the search all over again. It seems that things could have been done differently. The State was providing support to childcare centers during this time, families had to pay half of their tuition and the state paid the other half, this was done so childcare centers could remain open and stable. Why didn't UVM take advantage of this opportunity? This is a heartbreaking situation for families, staff and the community. We need to take care of each other during this challenging time and cutting jobs and putting families in a situation without childcare is not taking care of our community.

67	6/3/2020 14:37:02	Hollis Easter	hollispublic@gmail.com	Community member	As access to childcare in the greater Burlington area continues to wither, it will become harder and harder to attract and keep younger professionals in the area, including both graduate students and junior faculty. I urge you to stem the tide and keep this program open, out of both humanitarian concern and simple self-interest. Thank you!

Closing this school is a devastating loss to the community and to Vermont's children. I can't believe that closing childcare would even be a consideration in Vermont, where childcare demand is so high and there are so few options. Please reconsider the decision to close the school, there are other paths forward!

It provides a vital services for families and young children in our community. The UVM Children's Center is an exemplar preschool. Many private and public universal prekindergartens look to the center for best practices and innovation. Closing the school is at a detriment to not only the families that attend, but to UVM students looking to gain experience in early education, and preschools across the state that strive to emulate the program. Finally, UVM is sending the message that early education is easily disposable and does not matter which is very concerning in a state that was first in the country for a universal PreK program for each and every child.

The experience my daughter gained from spending quality time in this center changed her world while a student at UVM. Our young children/toddlers/infants deserve the best we can give them, and the experiences these children have at this quality center cannot be provided at many other centers. The philosophy at this center is outstanding. UVMs Early Childhood program will be vastly different without this center. Please reconsider. Appoint a task force to look at all options. Our youngest children deserve better.

Two of my children attended this exceptionally fine school, as well as my two grandchildren. The early childhood education program is well known for its excellence, but UVM management has obviously lost touch with the international, national, and local contacts that have been created as a result of CCSs incredible staff, history, and sharing of all their endeavors and success for more than 50 years. To arbitrarily cut out an entire program using E-mail to customers, faculty, staff, and others, is both crude and rude. It's time for the Board to listen and pay attention to what the CCS program has meant to so many, and stop calling it "too expensive" because you chose to change your book keeping ways to IBB. The decisions made by the President and the Board of Directors must be re-addressed, to reflect the poor choices and poor leadership exhibited.

It is a severe blow to UVM's standing as a leader in early childhood education to discontinue this program. Yes, these are hard times but there has to be solutions to solving the funding problems without immediately cutting off this esteemed program.  Quality early childhood education is the foundation of all education. Give it the respect and financial support it deserves and needs. Continue to be the beacon on the hill that other childcare providers can look to as a model to emulate. If you need to cut costs, take it from your highest paid administrators, not from your lowest paid teachers. 281	6/3/2020 6:53:41	Lindsey Sterrett	sterrett.nature@gmail.con	Former CCS Mentor Teacher/UVM Staff	When I moved to Vermont to teach at CCS after finishing my advanced degree, UVM's administration touted the phrase "Vermont Strong" frequently-- closing this program, which not only serves as a point of research and practice in the field of ECE in VT and beyond, has served hundreds of families in our community so they can work and children can develop. I am not a Vermonter by birth, but by choice, and to me strength comes in working and practicing on problems together. This is what young children teach us, how to engage, connect and work on problems. If any community can rise up and figure out the fiscal and logistical problems with child care, it's the children, families, teachers, faculty and advocates at UVM. Closing CCS's doors sets a dire paradigm for our field, but also for children. During early life theories are constructed about society and culture concurrently with brain development, what message are we sending children when we shudder their schools? What does our society value? And what do we COLLECTIVELY want to build together for children, who will be adults soon? Young Children today will have to face problems we cannot conceive of, what message are we offering to them if we adults are not willing to face and work on this problem together?
282	6/3/2020 7:51:33	Elizabeth Calcagni	lizcalcagni@yahoo.com	former CCS teacher	In addition to leaving families without childcare, this school has been an important venue for educating UVM students in the early education field. 319	6/2/2020 16:58:15	Douglas Hall	halldjh65@gmail.com	Grandfather of current older south student.	Child care providers across the country have been decimated by the "pandemic pause". Public institutions such as UVM should be doing everything they can to FILL the gaps in available service, not ADDING to those gaps by moving out of this space. The UVM Campus Children's School has been stellar, providing a great learning environment for those in care. It would be heartbreaking and a shame to lose this wonderful university resource.
320	6/3/2020 14:53:07	Maureen Nolan	maureen@maureenolan.com	Grandmother	The UVM Campus Children's School is legendary for the program and its impact on developing children. I petition UVM to reconsider keeping it open in some fashion for the continuation of a standard of childcare in Vermont and the country at large. I know this social disruption due to COVID19 is a monumental financial disaster with unknown consequences to Vermont's families. The loss of childcare however, will throw Vermont mothers and fathers and childcare nationwide back almost 100 years when the citizens envisioned the impact of good childcare on the overall health of the community at large. 335	6/4/2020 9:39:03	Megan Luke	megan.a.spaulding@gmail.com	Niece goes to UVM, worked at Trinity Children's Center	I grew up in VT, went to school in VT for early childhood education, and worked at Trinity Children's Center as well as others. I know the importance of quality early childhood programming. The children and families need your program to remain open. There never have been enough quality EC programs in the Burlington area, although certainly Burlington has a lot of quality programming considering the size of the city/state. Where will families go if your program closes? It can take years on a waiting list to get into a quality EC program. Mothers (and some fathers) may be pushed to quit their jobs, due to no childcare. Families may have to send their children to home daycares. There are a few quality home daycares and again I think VT's may be better to other state's. However, again the quality home daycares will have a waiting list. Then parents will be choosing between quitting their jobs and sending their child to a home daycare that doesn't provide the quality that families have come to know at the Campus Children's School. What about student teachers throughout Burlington who train at your center? Where will they student teach? I realize we're in the middle of a Pandemic and money is tight. However, you're sending a message to the community saying, "We don't really value EC education for kids or student teachers. If cuts need to be made, EC will be the first to go. So what if a mother has to quit her job and stay home with the kids (a job that perhaps she has trained half her life for, and still probably is not making as much money as she should, because wages in VT are not what they should be)." Families will move out of state to teach at other colleges or work at other hospitals. This is not a good retention plan. I thought I would live it VT my whole life but married a man who's from MN. We chose not to settle down in VT because there were not enough high paying, quality, job opportunities. We couldn't see ourselves comfortably buying a house and raising a family in VT. If the Campus Children's School closes, families will move out of state. Other families considering moving to VT may not, knowing quality childcare options are limited. Families will see that you closed your center and will know that UVM doesn't value working parents. Finding quality EC education, is a struggle. My first child has been in 5 different placements due to moving, quality, availability, birth of a sibling. It took awhile but both of our children attend a quality EC development center (connected with a small university in MN). The University of MN CDC tried to close their center, again another example of a college devaluing EC education. Families and staff fought to keep their CDC open. After many months of perseverance, the families and staff won. The UMN CDC remains open. The parents and staff at UVM's Campus Children's School will fight to keep their center open too. It's the right thing to do. Thank you. -Megan Luke, Champlain College '06 BS in early and elementary education, St. Michael's College '11 MATESOL

391	6/2/2020 22:43:16	Jena Detore	detore.jena@gmail.com	UVM Alum	I am deeply hurt by the administrations decision to close CCS. This program is unique and provides a training that cannot be matched. As an alum to the ECE program and having completed countless hours in the infant and toddler classrooms I can assure you that the CCS was the highlight of my education at UVM. It was at CCS that my skills and knowledge of teaching and childhood development were refined. More importantly, however, this is where I developed a passion for infants and toddlers. A respect for them. A respect that I have defended (while referencing UVM and CCS) more times than I can count. People familiar with quality ECE and especially those familiar with Reggio Emilia, listen and listen close. Our world has very little respect for our youngest citizens BUT CCS was one of the very few places that grew respect every single day. Closing CCS negatively impacts the future of ECE graduates. They will NOT be able to receive the same quality instruction that drew them to UVM in the first place. The long term effects will negatively impact the ridiculously hard work all UVM education graduates are already doing, at a time when families across the country NEED quality childcare that centers around respect for the child and family. On growth and development. You've taken that away. Please reconsider. Please.

The impact of this amazing school has had global reach and I believe it is a great detriment to the University community, to the Burlington community, and to the Early Childhood Ed community at large. I am devastated by this decision and with heartfelt passion sign this petition to take another look at this decision.

410	6/3/2020 1:30:42	Kate McGuire	Kate.r.mcguire@gmail.co	UVM Alum	This school shaped my personal teaching philosophy in a way that no other early childhood program could have. It prepared me for a career in a field that is highly misunderstood and extremely important. Our future early childhood educators need the Campus Children's School now more than ever to continue moving the ECE field in a progressive and research-based direction. I cannot express how much this school truly means to me, as an educator and as a learner.

437	6/3/2020 8:32:18	Carly Duckett	duckettcarly1@gmail.com	UVM Alum	CCS is a crucial institution for many UVM staff to come to work knowing their children are safe, cared for, and deeply loved by the experienced and highly trained professionals who teach them. Not only does it provide exceptional care for the children who are lucky enough to attend school at CCS, but it provides essential training to student teachers. This program is WHY I came to UVM to get my degree in Early Childhood. The loss of this school will be extremely detrimental to CESS, it's professors, and the dedicated staff who work at CCS. I am shocked and horrified that this decision has been made so abruptly and without much consideration for our community. I urge administrators to do better for UVM, CCS, CESS, and your students. This is another disappointing example of hardworking, dedicated professionals (teachers) being trivialized and taken advantage of by their own communities. UVM is a college, first and foremost, a place to learn. These teachers have fought for your children for long enough- it's your turn to fight for them.

439	6/3/2020 9:01:16	Carah McClure	Mclurecarah@gmail.com	UVM Alum	Every moment I had spent at the UVM campus Children's School brought me not only incredible joy, but also an incredible appreciation for the wisdom of my peers, the wonder of children, and all the learning that could be achieved in a day. In my career as an educator today in the public schools of MA, I carry heavy pockets full of the philosophy of the Campus Children's school. I pull from these pockets the importance of being in a relationship with my students, being a true friend and an honest guide in their learning. Because of my time as a teacher at the campus children's school I ask questions about my world and the world of my students and encourage the pursuit to leave it better than it came to us. Because of my time at the Campus Children's School I have learned to allow for my students to teach me and for my classroom to become theirs. If the UVM Campus Children's school were to close, it would leave future educators like myself, who went through this incredible program, to enter the field with pockets less full than my own. I am choosing to speak on their behalf, as well as the behalf of the students and their families who still have so much to learn from the Campus Children's School. Please reconsider.

Under the mentors of Amanda Ferguson, Dawn StAmour, Jennifer Hurley, Lori (excuse me but I don't know her new last name), and Lauren; these profound, intelligent, nurturing women need to continue to make early childhood education all that it is meant to be. It is disheartening to hear that a university would make such a harsh and abrupt decision, affecting the lives of so so many people. 494	6/3/2020 14:48:43	Ian Nikolai Pedro Prieto	ian.prieto@gmail.com	UVM Alum	Please remain open for the coming academic year. Do it for the teachers that work there. Quality early education is exactly what the world, and our small communities need right now. Closing the campus children's center sends the message to future students, current students, alumni and the children that their work is unimportant. What a disservice to the families that have invested in the University of Vermont- especially those with young children who you are still expecting to show up at their jobs as faculty and staff. Finding alternate schools for the children to attend is a process that parents spend years planning and preparing for. Relationships are created over months and years, and are so valuable at this young age. Finding quality centers for both the children to be a part of and for students to learn from is challenging. When I attended the program, I questioned how I would be prepared to enter an educational world that wasn't "ideal"- like the universities children's center that I was learning from. Dale Goldhaber looked at me and said, "if we don't teach and have you experience the ideal, then what will you strive for in your future endeavors." Having spent the past ten years in education, I still look to the lessons I learned at the campus children's center to guide me. Reflecting back on my time at UVM, the children's center was THE experience that shaped my career, and the way I view and raise my own young children. Universities are supposed to be the innovative guiding lights that others turn to in times like this. My greatest fear is that the message you send by doing this is that early childhood is not worth the investment. I can tell you without a doubt that it is.

I had mentor teachers who challenged me and held me to high expectations. Through my experience at CCS I was able to apply what I learned in the classroom to my actual teaching experiences. Parents were extremely supportive and engaged in their children's learning in the classroom which helped me develop strong skills to support and communicate with parents. Without this experience it would be a disservice for practicing students as it would take away the authentic and challenging experience they need to be prepared for their student teaching and future careers as educators. By opening up CCS it would continue to provide the children of Vermont with a high quality education and provide student teachers with a challenging and supportive environment to grow as educators.

This is where I had my first practicums, taught my first lessons, led my first morning meetings, and discovered my passion and love for school days spent in the woods with 2-5 year olds. With its Reggio philosophies, this place is the ideal example of what early ed should look like--learning through play and embedding the passions and interests of young children into the curriculum every second of every day.  I learned to see children as little scientists here. I learned to analyze and understand behaviors instead of just how to discipline and manage behavior. I learned to look at what role the environment plays within a classroom. Though I am a public school teacher now and have gained 5 years of professional experience since being here, this place molded me and taught me all the foundational skills of teaching in the world of early ed. It is a magical place with wonderful teachers and mentors. It would be a disservice to everyone in this community and to future pre-service teachers to lose this school.

Please reconsider this choice. This program helped shape me as an educator and I only took one early Ed class. Closing the Children's School is an incredible loss for the UVM community for families, children, and UVM students alike. It is heartbreaking to think of the young children who are losing high-quality education and socialization, for parents who are suddenly without reliable childcare, and for education students who are missing out on valuable learning experiences in the school. My time at the CCS while a student at UVM shaped me to become the professional I am today. I truly can't imagine the early education program without the lab school environment. I hope a solution can be found to save the CCS.

					I began working at the Campus Children's School in 2015 when I transferred to UVM. I was instantly welcomed and showered with love from the staff and the families of the children. When a faculty member left, I had the opportunity to step up and be a part time mentor, still as a full time college student. During my 4 years at UVM, through experiences such as being a work study student, completing practicums, and being a part time student mentor, I was able to become a better leader, grow as an educator, and create everlasting friendships and memories. I have always told everyone when asked about college, that if it weren't for the CCS, I am not sure I would have stayed in college. The CCS was my HOME, my FAMILY. I always remember having conversations with faculty and them telling me that the best educators are recruited out of CCS and schools email the CCS every year asking to spread the word to college students because you don't find many educators with the experience like the one you get at UVM CCS. I would hope that this decision can be changed and more students can have the opportunity I did there.

					This is one of the best assets UVM has. It is an amazing school and has so much to offer. I understand the need to make budget cuts right now, but there are so many other things that should be cut before this. The teachers are heartbroken, the parents are heartbroken, and the children are going to be heartbroken. Every teacher there genuinely cares for those kids and puts their heart and soul into their jobs there. Shutting this down will do a HUGE disservice to any future education students at UVM. This children's center has inspired so many students and it is a shame that you are closing it. It is ironic that an educational facility such as a university cuts out an children's center...there are going to be many prospective education students who choose to go elsewhere because this children's center is no longer available as an opportunity. I can guarantee you that if you close this center, you will regret it.

					This school is imperative to the learning and development of EDEC students. This will reduce the strengths of this program greatly. I am concerned for the effects that this will have on early childhood education in Vermont. Across the board, we have seen people routinely cut funding for the earliest learners and cut the salaries of early childhood workers and UVM has a responsibility to set a better example for the community at large. This is embarrassing to read about as an alum of the program and as a teacher of young children in our K-4 public schools. I want to continue to be proud of my degree and my program. I want to continue to be proud of UVM. Please don't downgrade the program, and leave many families and children in limbo during a difficult time in our state and country.

605	6/4/2020 10:47:44	Matt Joseph	matt@apllc.net	UVM Alum	Excellent early childhood education is a great first step towards facilitating the mental and social development of the next generation, which we will task with fixing the catastrophic failures of our own generation -- such as climate change and violence in America. The Campus Children's School provides the aforementioned excellent early childhood education. It might seem like an easy answer to close the school in light of current circumstances; however, that is regrettably short-sighted. As we hand over responsibility of fixing our generation's failures to the younger generation, the least we can do is to provide them with the tools they need to succeed in this mission. I propose that the Campus Children's School should remain open.

In these horrible times we need these teachers more than ever. Closing the school will be a huge blow to the community and also to the quality of the Early Childhood EducationProgram at UVM. I highly recommend that you agree to this petition and look for other ways to cut costs as cutting an essential program such as this is not the answer.

611	6/4/2020 12:46:08	Dylan Hertzberg	dhertzbe@uvm.edu	UVM Alum	Garamella, you have a duty to uphold what makes UVM a great and unique school that reflects the values of the student body, instead of upholding the values of investors. Think like a UVM professor and student and think interdisciplinarily. This is a SCHOOL not a corporation. Run it like a school, not a business. Please. This school is not only important for families, but for UVM early childhood education students. The amount of growth and love I developed for teaching through this school was unimaginable. Working at UVM CCS was the biggest blessing of my life. The friendships I made there, the growth through direct feedback and UVM's educational program, the relationships I made with the families, all of it. This is the school that shaped me into becoming a teacher. It truly defined and excelled what it means to be a school of learning. I still look back at my lesson plans, I still look over my feedback, I still incorporate everything that I have learned at this school into my teaching practice and will continue to do so for the rest of my life. This school was SO important both for education students and families. It will be doing a lot more harm than good if it closes its doors permanently. Be prepared for the Early Ed. program to take a huge loss in terms of UVM student success and confidence moving forward. Not every university is as blessed as UVM to have such an amazing school, and it will be devastating to see it go. I will do anything to help keep it around just so other generations of UVM students can have the confidence and success that I have found, all because of the guidance from the CCS.

634	6/4/2020 18:39:33	Samantha Elgin	samantha.s.elgin@gmail.	UVM Alum	This school was a big part of my development as a teacher in the early childhood program! It helped me build relationships and find my way and place at the university. It helped me by also allowing me to work there as well as student teach. It is a wonderful place for teachers, students, families and children. It is an amazingly innovative school that is so hard to find these days. Please find a way to bring it back! This is a tragedy.
635	6/4/2020 19:38:08	Giles N Willey	gilesw13@gmail.com	UVM Alum	The school has always been a great resource for UVM staff to allow the family vs work conversation to be a bit easier to navigate. I'm not sure exactly what the reason for shutting down might be but suspect COVID is in their somewhere. UVM has always been on the leading edge of so many things. I would think this would be the perfect opportunity to exhibit a forward thinking position that allows a respectful understanding of the COVID concerns balanced with some sanity that we also have to live normal lives. Thanks. Giles

719	6/5/2020 17:16:42	Abby LaBounty	Abigail.wise@myemail.char	UVM Alum, Community member	If UVM is truly welcoming students back to campus in the Fall, CESS students deserve to have the vital practicum experience that CSS offers. Faculty and staff need child care in order to teach and work, which UVM seems to expect of them. Children deserve a space that facilitates the best possible development. Licensed teachers are very likely willing to work through the new child care regulations because they LOVE the work beyond any one struggle. I am one myself so I speak from experience. Closing without consulting any of these stakeholders is narrow sighted, irresponsible, and honestly just rude.

726	6/3/2020 9:25:12	Christine Gilliam	christinegilliam@gmail.co	UVM Alum, Community member, collaborative partner at Champlain Valley Head Start	Closing the campus child care center is devastating for our entire community, not just UVM. Quality care for our youngest population is of utmost importance to the health and well being of our community. The center prepared young educators to enter the workforce to provide the best care and education for children from birth on up. Without this opportunity, our youngest children will suffer. Re-open the center immediately. Make cuts elsewhere. Do not cut the care and development of our youngest population and future teachers.
727	6/3/2020 6:31:27	Tamara Henson	Tpopovac@gmail.com	UVM Alum, Community member, Current preschool teacher in the community	As an undergrad student at UVM (Fall '09 graduate) in the program of early childhood education, the campus children's school was a place that I spent a lot of time in, observing and learning what a true childcare center should look like, one that honors the children. There are not many places in Vermont like this, and we need more of them to set the path to excellence in child honoring. Closing the school would put so many at a disadvantage and be a true loss to our community. I understand the fight that we face every day, and I ask you to join the fight, not leave it.

I know first hand of the challenges of finding adequate, much less outstanding, early education experiences for young children. It is a detriment to our community, locally and nationally, to close this program. The teachers in this program do so much more than nurture the growth of young children. They also provide exemplary models for what early education should look like. They present locally and nationally to share their expertise. This program is respected and held in the highest regard. People who are touched by the CCS are forever inspired to do better for our youngest citizens. Shame on you, UVM, for not recognizing the value this program brings to our community and beyond.

736	6/3/2020 5:56:00	Deborah Gale	dgale@uvm.edu	UVM Alum, Community member, UVM retiree	The abrupt closure of this excellent childcare/preschool, without notification to the community, is unfair and detrimental to the children, families, and teachers. 741	6/3/2020 13:43:27	Elizabeth Berman	Elizabeth.A.Berman@gmail.com	UVM Alum, Former faculty; child went to CCS	Our daughter Natalie was lucky enough to be a part of the program for three years, and it was a phenomenal experience for her, especially in terms of social and emotional growth. She was bumped around through 4 different daycares before we landed at CCS and the experience completely reset our expectations of what childcare could (and should) be. She got dirty hunting snakes in the woods, happy danced to Michael Jackson, made challah bread, and created many artistic and written masterpieces. The center was our extended family and to this day we are still in touch with a number of the parents and student teachers, who went from babysitting to taking over classrooms of their own. The fact that this center was closed without discussion or input is shocking and frankly short-sighted. I am appalled that the UVM admin does not see value in investing in the future of Vermonters, from preschoolers through UVM students. (And speaking to the bottom line and UVM's desired reputation, imagine the individuals you will lose out in recruiting because this fundamental need is not being addressed or offered as a benefit.)
742	6/2/2020 22:34:51	Jennifer Irving	Jennypie26@gmail.com	UVM Alum, Former staff	The Campus Children's is a magical place. It supports UVM faculty and staff, it educates and cares for the youngest members of the community like no other early childhood center I've known and helps create some of the finest teachers you'll ever find. Closing the school will be a hard blow to the university community and to all those that passed through the doors for decades. Please reconsider keeping the school open. Thank you.

744	6/2/2020 20:57:07	Tami Johnson	Talverso1228@gmail.com	UVM Alum, Former staff at Uvm campus childrens school	The news of the sudden closure is devastating to me as I am certain it was for so many staff, students, and families. As a graduate from the uvm early childhood program, my experience at the campus childrens center (school) as a student and staff significantly impacted who I am as a teacher, parent, and human being. It gave me the passion and tools to make real positive change in other early childhood programming in Burlington (Burlington children's space) and to continue that influence where I live now in upstate New York. During my visits to colleges during my senior year in high school, it was touring the campus childrens school with Dale Goldgaber that made me choose Uvm over all the other universities /colleges I was accepted to. Had there not been a lab school on campus that valued kindness and acceptance in our very youngest I likely would have chosen a decent school. I implore you to please not take that opportunity away from our future educators and reconsider your decision on choosing the campus childrens school.

746	6/5/2020 18:05:23	Lauren Young	Lauren.young79@gmail.c	UVM Alum, Former teacher at CCS	The UVM Campus Children's School is much more than a campus child care facility. It is a home for many, a thoughtful and intentional training school for teacher of the very youngest learners. It is a place for both children and young adult learners to find their way in our world. It is a place of advocacy for the competencies of young children. For me, it has shaped who I am as a person: first as an undergraduate student, then as a teacher and adult, then as a parent. Ultimately my time at the Campus Children's School has guided my practice as a nurse practitioner to engage parents to recognize strengths and competencies of their own children. The closure of this teaching and learning site will send waves of loss far beyond the campus at the University of Vermont. Please reconsider your budget cuts. This loss is much greater than financial.

748	6/3/2020 13:54:18	Leah Tighe	LeahTighe@yahoo.com	UVM Alum, former UVM staff (lead teacher at Campus Children's Center)	Our nation significantly undervalues the importance of early childhood education, as demonstrated by the low salaries of the professionals in this field and the structural cracks and financial cliffs that programs have had to navigate in order to stay afloat. While I understand the financial situation of the University and that perhaps CCS is not a "money-maker" I hope that the decision makers behind cutting this incredible program realize the magnitude of this action and how many lives will be impacted. At a time when our country seems to be imploding we need leaders who make thoughtful decisions and strategic plans, not seemingly rash decisions based on the bottom line. I urge you to do better UVM: consider putting this decision on hold and creating a better solution. Our littlest citizens are counting on you.

750	6/4/2020 6:09:40	Jed R Norris	jnorris@shelburnefarms.o	UVM Alum, parent of two ccs alums & former mentor teacher for 7 years	The campus childrens school was a gem for families and children who were fortunate enough to have a spot. The long long wait list was a testament to the work of that school. As a former program director in another local school the largest impact will be on the early education workforce. Hiring a uvm alum meant you were bringing someone into your program who had quality experience in the value of early education. Caring for infants & toddlers is not a job that just anyone can do. When you hired a UVM early education student as a teacher in your program you knew that they had been exposed and had practice being that type of teacher. The type of teacher who knows what curriculum can be for our youngest citizens, the type of teacher who was caring, empathetic and knew that these were years that set up a solid foundation for life as they make sense of this world. Please take a pause from cutting this program. Rethink. Move the program to another building. Let families and alumni families come in and help brainstorm a move or how to make this work. I have seen this program make an impact in the short term for the families and children but i have also seen this program make an impact and continue to do so when you look at the early education field as a whole.

753	6/3/2020 14:00:53	Rachel Cioffi	Racioffi@gmail.com	UVM Alum, Spent summers working at CCS	Your early childhood education students will be done a disservice by not having the opportunity for learning in the CCS environment. We need to be sending teachers out into the work force who have been strongly mentored in appropriate practice and who have the hands on experience to back it up. In addition, the need for quality early childhood education is great and all of these children are being done a disservice by leaving them without quality care. I work for the GBYMCA currently and we have had many calls from your families looking for care. Unfortunately our waiting lists are also long and most will not get spots here either. Sometimes you have to do what's right for children and families. Yes, early care is not a money making proposition. Change needs to happen regarding the funding of early care. But slowly, EC is coming to the attention of more and more legislators. We can't abandon children and families now.

Only 50% of childcare facilities are currently open in the state. By closing the Campus Children's center, the administration is further burdening young parents. I think it is important for the university to show the foresight to protect the junior faculty and staff that are the future of UVM.

894	6/3/2020 6:16:13	Cheryl Collins	Cheryl.collins@uvm.edu	UVM staff	This is the most outstanding childcare center in the entire state. 895	6/3/2020 7:02:58	Jim Duncan	james.duncan@uvm.edu	UVM staff	I am deeply saddened by the abrupt decision to eliminate the already-limited capacity of early childhood education programming at UVM. Both my children attended CCS, and as a parent of one child who has suddenly lost her preschool, teachers and classmates and another who maintains a close connection to the teachers there, I am outraged that they have had this suddenly ripped away with no warning or consultation. The idea that we can somehow find other childcare in a region where parents wait years on waiting lists is ridiculous, and shows a surprising lack of concern for UVM employees you expect to show and teach, do research and support students and the campus in two months time. I seriously hope that UVM leadership will reconsider this action, support families and children in our community, and bring back this award-winning and reputable child care and preschool immediately.

900	6/3/2020 8:51:54	Kimberly Meilleur	kmeilleu@uvm.edu	UVM staff	I was never able to utilize the CCS as I was never selected off the waitlist, and I have always been disappointed that UVM has not done more to be a partner in the community when it comes to childcare, since we are such a large and important employer. I fully understand the budgetary crisis faced by the University, but do not feel that leaving parents, children, staff and students associated to CCS in the lurch, suddenly, was an appropriate move. The administration should have been working with CCS and the community (Let's Grow Kids is an excellent resource and advocate for high-quality, affordable childcare for all of Vermont's children) well before we had ever heard of COVID-19. The abrupt closing of CCS only perpetuates the inequalities that exist within the childcare framework, and adds to the pressures on the already over-strained system. I would ask that further consideration is given to see if there is any possible way to keep CCS open and bring together a task force to identify ways to actually expand CCS and make it part of the solution to the childcare crisis.

It never happened. Closing existing CCS is a great disappointment for young families who had this opportunity, and no hope for standing in line for a place for their child. Once the space is occupied by other offices, hard to believe it could be reopened in future. If UVM finds sponsors and funds to build more buildings, perhaps it could be possible to find investors in Staff Children School on campus, and keep the opportunity for students to work and practice in the CCS, otherwise UVM may stay only with aged employees, as young families could leave, and College of Education and Social Services may lose students with Pre-elementary and Early Childhood major...

Early career academics, in particularly women, face numerous hurdles in starting a family and ensuring career success and the current disregard for the role the UVM campus children's center plays in supporting those members of our community is egregious and short sighted. Further, the insinuation as just cause for closure that the UVM Campus Children's Center does not serve a large number of UVM families is patently false and misleading since my own experience suggests long wait lists (years longer than childhood) that under serve all but those in tenured faculty lines and subsequent siblings.

1015	6/3/2020 1:03:06	Gabrielle Hebert	hebertgabie@gmail.com	UVM student	I am a rising junior & I have been with CCS since my first semester of my first year as a work study student. Overtime, I have seen how important and crucial early childhood education is. As a health sciences major, we have discussed that these years are some of what the most important which could potentially dictate their health & well being later on if we do not take action starting at the infant level. During my time I have grown professionally alongside my peers and the staff which has been incredibly beneficial and rewarding. I have also witnessed the profound development that goes into curriculum planning as these children are exploring interests/identities & navigating their own world through social justice. I have made significant connections with many of the mentor teachers, children, families, & other students. Working at CSS has been one of the many highlights for me during my time at UVM & am deeply saddened by this decision and will no longer have a job coming back to campus in the fall. Please think twice about permanently closing CCS and the impact it will have on the staff, the children's families, CESS, and the greater Burlington community.

This is a blatant act of disrespect for the field of early education, and to all the staff and individuals that access the CCS and who are still expected to work at UVM. Where are these children supposed to go? How could UVM not even consult with CCS staff at all? I am embarrassed to be a current graduate student here.

It made the early childhood education programs unique and was the deciding factor in my college choice. It was also incredible you convenient to the staff who brought their children there. Without the campus children's school my UVM experience will be drastically altered and it is unfair to the staff and families to close the school so abruptly.

1153	6/5/2020 12:14:04	Dylan Streb	dstreb@uvm.edu	UVM student	The community in and around CCS is integral to the success of both students and teachers as it provides a source of income for students, as well as necessary experience in a classroom environment. For professors it provides necessary childcare that is increasingly harder to secure in the state of Vermont. By closing this school the UVM administration is prioritizing lining their own pockets over the community the claim to represent and support: By defunding this great resource to your community and your own students who attend this institution, you are taking away opportunities for change and growth in the field of early education.

I know many people who work there with their major and I know this is a huge reason people come here. We have so many great programs and I hate to see them getting cut so easily. As a CEMS student, we are constantly given priority of funding, so maybe stop that. Give the money to quite literally any other department who needs it. STEM is major and I go here for it, but it's not everything the school has to offer. Please reconsider doing this. I stand for all of them!!

When we first moved to VT, my parent's top choice for a childcare center was the UVM CCS. We trusted the the quality of education and care of CCS than any other childcare location. This is a mutually beneficial exchange that only strengthens our greater VT community. These families have a lot of faith and trust in CCS, and it would be a shame to see the school close permanently. For me personally, seeing the kids around campus softens the stress of education, they are a welcome reminder of what is good in the world and how much better they will make it.

1171	6/3/2020 0:57:32	Emma Askew	emma.askew@uvm.edu	UVM student, Teachers Assistant at Campus Children's School	I am heartbroken to hear that this is yet another financial cut made by UVM. In the little time I have worked at the UVM Campus Children's School I have seen how hard all of the teachers work and the connections they have formed with these students. The unique classroom environment, education and overall experience cannot be compared and is a truly special opportunity. As a student who lived in L/L this past year seeing my Campus Children's School students often and around campus always brought me joy and excited for my next time in the classroom with them. I also recognize that the professors who send their children to this on campus school are able to be the best professors they can be due to the worry free school experience that the UVM Campus Children's School offers. I really hope this decision of closing can be reconsidered for the sake of the UVM community, the children's education and the UVM faculty who rely on this school to succeed themselves.

Do not dismiss the hardworking educators and lay them off. Do not leave families vulnerable unable to find childcare for their children during a pandemic.

1177	6/3/2020 22:20:13	Charlotte Fleischman	cefleisc@uvm.edu	UVM student, UVM Alum	Closing CCS is a low blow. There are families, faculty, and staff that rely on this school to stay open. We are in a moment in history where education NEEDS to be prioritized to help nurture and foster young children to becoming compassionate and active members of their community. Do better UVM. One thing that could always make me smile was seeing the kids out on their walks. I think cutting the program would be a tragic mistake, making things more difficult for parents, taking away real life learning opportunities from education students, and taking away one of the joys of being on campus. I think the decision to completely cancel the program was both unnecessary and thoughtless, and highlights the way that the administration is deprioritizing and defunding everything other than STEM.

This is not wise. Dip into the endowment if you have to, but losing faculty will do irreparable harm to UVM students by denying them the best and brightest faculty.

1188	6/4/2020 12:17:46	Penelope Cray	penelopecray@gmail.com	Wife of UVM faculty	Please let us preserve all institutions at UVM that support the faculty-student relationship, which is the sole reason the university exists in the first place. I believe all other functions of the university should be pared down to preserve this function in its fullest expression. UVM families, both faculty and staff, need reputable local childcare that accepts infants through preschoolers and operates in the summer. UVM early childhood education students need a place to practice their skills. Please don't end these vital connections that support both UVM families and students.
