

VERMONT ACCESS NETWORK

16 April 2019

MEMO TO: Members of the Senate Appropriations Committee

FROM: Lauren-Glenn Davitian, CCTV Center for Media & Democracy

RE: State of Vermont Proposed FY20 Budget - Request for Study Committee Allocation

---

Thank you for the opportunity to testify on Vermont's FY20 Budget.

My name is Lauren-Glenn Davitian, Executive Director of CCTV Center for Media & Democracy based in Burlington Vermont. We operate Channel 17/ Town Meeting Television, a government access TV channel that serves the people of Chittenden County.

We are proud to be part of a statewide organization known as Vermont Access Network which represents 25 community media centers across the state, operating more than 80 public, educational and government (PEG) access channels.

Collectively, with members of our communities, we generate 18,000 hours of local programs each year, and utilize more than $8 million in cable subscriber fees to provide community based programming (including municipal meetings and election coverage, which you are likely familiar with), supplement public education with media literacy and school coverage, and provide an open first come, first served free speech forum.

The state of Vermont has advanced PEG access as a public good for 35 years. There are several threats facing the continued open access of these PEG channels and community media centers that knit our state together. These threats diminish both the state's authority to manage its public rights-of-ways (where cable lines run) and will compromise the vibrant local media network that serves communities across Vermont.

We have outlined these threats (coming from the FCC, federal courts and, soon, the Supreme Court) before several legislative committees.

As a way forward, have requested a Study Committee to be established to examine these issues.

The Senate Finance Committee is currently reviewing H. 513, known as “the Broadband Bill”. Members of the Committee have expressed support for including the Study Committee as part of that bill.

We are speaking today to let you know that this Study Committee is under consideration in Senate Finance and that to go forward, the Committee will require a modest appropriation to cover the participation of 2-3 legislators. We request your support for this appropriation.

We appreciate the opportunity to testify. Thank you for your consideration.
