The Connecticut River Joint Commissions are composed of 30 volunteer Commissioners, 15 from both New Hampshire and Vermont, who are business people, landowners, conservationists, and citizens who live and work in the Connecticut River Valley and are committed to its future.

To ensure local leadership on river issues, the CRJC established five Local River Subcommittees: Headwaters, Riverbend, Upper Valley, Mount Ascutney, and Wantastiquet. Subcommittee members represent their riverfront towns to give a local voice to interests and concerns for the Connecticut River.
