"Before I vote I usually scramble to educate myself as much as I can, so it was nice to be at home and take my time learning about all the candidates and races. Having my ballot mailed to me helped me have less last-minute panic and rush to get everything done. It was much less stressful."

“It was easy. I got my ballot in the mail, I could take time to look it over and then research any candidates that I didn't know. I filled in the ballot, and fortunately had heard that you absolutely needed to put it in the security envelope, so I followed all the directions and dropped it at the dropbox in town on my way to the store. Much easier and more convenient than making sure I had time to vote on election day!”
