14. CONCISE SUMMARY (150 WORDS OR LESS):

This Rule reinstitutes an Earned Good Time (EGT) program for Vermont's Department of Corrections' incarcerated and furloughed offenders. Offenders on probation, parole, earning Work Camp Good Time, and serving life sentences without parole are ineligible. For each month eligible offenders that are "not adjudicated of a major disciplinary rule violation" and are "not reincarcerated from the community for a violation of release conditions" (but for no-fault housing loss), they will be awarded up to seven (7) days of Earned Good Time credit toward their minimum and maximum sentence. Offenders receiving day-for-day inpatient substance abuse treatment post adjudication are ineligible during their treatment. The Department is obligated to record monthly EGT-related changes to offenders' sentences, notify offenders of these changes at least every ninety days, notify victims of record of the program at its outset, and maintain a system where victims can procure relevant information as necessary.

Final Proposed Coversheet

15. EXPLANATION OF WHY THE RULE IS NECESSARY:

28 V.S.A. §818(a) requires the DOC to adopt rules that outline an earned time program.

16. EXPLANATION OF HOW THE RULE IS NOT ARBITRARY:

This rule is required by 28 V.S.A. §818.

17. LIST OF PEOPLE, ENTERPRISES AND GOVERNMENT ENTITIES AFFECTED BY THIS RULE:

This rule affects several people, enterprises, and government entities. The eligible offenders, their loved ones, communities, victims, and victims' loved ones are affected. Among the enterprises affected are professional legal advocates, local nonprofit organizations such as the American Civil Liberties Union, O.U.R. House of Central Vermont, Center on Crime Victim Services, and Vermont Network Against Domestic & Sexual Violence. Finally, the government entities affected by the rule include: the Agency of Human Services, specifically the Departments of Corrections, Children and Families, Mental Health, Health Access, and Disabilities, Aging, and Independent Living as well as the Departments of Labor and Commerce and Community Development and States Attorneys and Defender General Offices. This rule affects victims who seek accurate offender release date information. Making relevant information available to victims, in support of their empowerment and healing, is of paramount importance to this rule.

18. BRIEF SUMMARY OF ECONOMIC IMPACT (150 WORDS OR LESS):

This Rule will impose substantial economic impact on the DOC, especially for the Sentence Computation (SCU) and Victims Services (VSU) units. Both currently operate at, or beyond, capacity in staff hours; both will require the equivalent of 1 full-time staff member (SCU: $79,890.72) as well as the development and facilitation of training for all relevant staff. The Rule will require significantly more work associated with victim notification and supports to crime victims, yet the Department is not currently in a position to hire new staff. Therefore, current VSS and Probation and Parole staff, both already at- or beyond- capacity, will be required to spend more staff hours managing victims and likely including significant overtime and delays in addressing victim-related issues.

Final Proposed Coversheet

Administrative Procedures – Economic Impact Analysis

Instructions:

In completing the economic impact analysis, an agency analyzes and evaluates the anticipated costs and benefits to be expected from adoption of the rule; estimates the costs and benefits for each category of people enterprises and government entities affected by the rule; compares alternatives to adopting the rule; and explains their analysis concluding that rulemaking is the most appropriate method of achieving the regulatory purpose.

Rules affecting or regulating schools or school districts must include cost implications to local school districts and taxpayers in the impact statement, a clear statement of associated costs, and consideration of alternatives to the rule to reduce or ameliorate costs to local school districts while still achieving the objectives of the rule (see 3 V.S.A. § 832b for details).

Rules affecting small businesses (excluding impacts incidental to the purchase and payment of goods and services by the State or an agency thereof), must include ways that a business can reduce the cost or burden of compliance or an explanation of why the agency determines that such evaluation isn't appropriate, and an evaluation of creative, innovative or flexible methods of compliance that would not significantly impair the effectiveness of the rule or increase the risk to the health, safety, or welfare of the public or those affected by the rule.

1. TITLE OF RULE FILING:

2. ADOPTING AGENCY:

Agency of Human Services

3. CATEGORY OF AFFECTED PARTIES:

LIST CATEGORIES OF PEOPLE, ENTERPRISES, AND GOVERNMENTAL ENTITIES POTENTIALLY AFFECTED BY THE ADOPTION OF THIS RULE AND THE ESTIMATED COSTS AND BENEFITS ANTICIPATED:

This rule affects several people, enterprises, and government entities. The eligible offenders, their loved ones, communities, victims, and victims' loved ones are affected. Among the enterprises affected are professional legal advocates, local nonprofit organizations such as the American Civil Liberties Union, O.U.R. House of Central Vermont, Center on Crime Victim Services, and Vermont Network Against Domestic &

Sexual Violence. Finally, the government entities affected by the rule include: the Agency of Human Services, specifically the Departments of Corrections, Children and Families, Mental Health, Health Access, and Disabilities, Aging, and Independent Living as well as the Departments of Labor and Commerce and Community Development and States Attorneys and Defender General Offices.

The majority of estimated costs of this bill would be incurred by various departments within the Agency of Human Services, particularly the Department of Corrections. Nonpecuniary costs would be incurred by offenders' victims who may experience trauma and concern due to an earlier release date for offenders.

The benefits would primarily be born by the offenders and their loved ones in the form of an earlier release date. These offenders' communities may also incur benefits from the added human capital offenders' presence may provide.

4. IMPACT ON SCHOOLS:

INDICATE ANY IMPACT THAT THE RULE WILL HAVE ON PUBLIC EDUCATION, PUBLIC SCHOOLS, LOCAL SCHOOL DISTRICTS AND/OR TAXPAYERS CLEARLY STATING ANY ASSOCIATED COSTS:

5. ALTERNATIVES: CONSIDERATION OF ALTERNATIVES TO THE RULE TO REDUCE OR AMELIORATE COSTS TO LOCAL SCHOOL DISTRICTS WHILE STILL ACHIEVING THE OBJECTIVE OF THE RULE.

8. COMPARISON:

Economic Impact Analysis

COMPARE THE IMPACT OF THE RULE WITH THE ECONOMIC IMPACT OF OTHER ALTERNATIVES TO THE RULE, INCLUDING NO RULE ON THE SUBJECT OR A RULE HAVING SEPARATE REQUIREMENTS FOR SMALL BUSINESS:

2020 Act 148 outlines the requirements for the rule. The economic impact statement is based on the mandate to develop the program within those requirements. No alternatives were considered.

9. SUFFICIENCY: EXPLAIN THE SUFFICIENCY OF THIS ECONOMIC IMPACT ANALYSIS.

The goals of Justice Reinvestment as outlined in Act 148 are to create savings in the criminal justice system through the use of data-supported analysis to implement policies and evidence-informed practices that can reduce the population of incarcerated Vermonters. The creation of an earned time program is one of several strategies that will contribute to the overall savings. If any savings were to be realized, they are intended to be reinvested in strategies that improve public safety and reduce recidivism. A study by the Council of State Governments suggested that Vermont has the potential to avert between $11M to $14M in criminal justice costs over a 5 year period. However, this averted cost estimate assumed that the state would make an initial investment of $2 million to bolster community services around housing and programming that support successful reentry after incarceration. The funding was included in the original version of the bill and removed prior to passage. The establishment of an earned time program is intended to increase the number of people who can be released to the community through a reduction in their sentence. With the impact of the COVID-19 response to the state budget, the funds were not available to support the $2 million appropriation and it was removed from the final version of the bill. This could impact the ability to achieve the outcomes of justice reinvestment. As the savings in the Justice Reinvestment proposal are not a certainty, DOC anticipates the increased staff costs to have an impact on its budget. In other words, the Department will incur additional staff costs. These costs will not impact the potential cost aversion for the Justice Reinvestment project overall.

Economic Impact Analysis

Administrative Procedures – Environmental Impact Analysis

Instructions:

In completing the environmental impact analysis, an agency analyzes and evaluates the anticipated environmental impacts (positive or negative) to be expected from adoption of the rule; compares alternatives to adopting the rule; explains the sufficiency of the environmental impact analysis.

- Impacts on the discharge of pollutants to water
- Impacts on the arability of land
- Impacts on the climate
- Impacts on the flow of water

Julianne Heisler	Why did inmate morale take priority over a victim feeling safe?	The decision to reinstitute earned time was made by the Legislature after testimony and review of written reports. The issue of inmate morale was referenced in a report based on Act 56 of 2019. The DOC provided this information as requested by the Legislature and the Legislature made the decision based on the totality of the information provided.
Cami Callevro	No matter what the crime, they always were able to earn good time which is why those sentences, right, the minimum sentence? So how is this different than all the good time that they already earned? I would hope that the earned good time is based upon the level of the crime. I would hope that would goes without saying, What's really the difference between the already earned good time that is in place and is there any kind of of safety net based on the of level of crime?	The Earned Good Time described in Act 148 is a separate program from the day for day reduction in term that certain offenders can earn when placed in a Work Camp. An offender placed in work camp can acquire a reduction of 30 days in the minimum and maximum term if they meet the standards set by the DOC. To be eligible the offender must: 1. have a minimum custody level; 2. have medical clearance; 3. not be convicted of a listed, violent, or sexually related offense; 4. have no convictions for escape; and 5. have no disciplinary reports for specific set of rule violations. Because work camp credit is significantly more days per month than earned good time, there are more eligibility criteria that must be met for a person to qualify. A person who qualifies for work camp good time cannot also receive Earned Good Time as described in this rule. The Department of Corrections filed a rule that complied with the law.

Commenter	Comment	DOC Response
		The Earned Good Time award is not based on the level of the crime. It applies to all sentenced offenders. As described above, there are differences in the two programs. Work Camp Good Time has limits based on crime and other factors. Earned Good Time will exclude any person who is convicted of life without parole. This exclusion will limit some people who committed egregious crimes from receiving a monthly reduction in their term.
Blaine Kinsey	Although I recognize that the coronavirus pandemic has made incarceration much more difficult for employees of the correctional system and for prison inmates, these proposed guidelines for “earned good time” will exacerbate the deficiencies in our criminal “justice” system. Each day in our local newspaper, there is at least one article about some crime involving domestic abuse (physical battery and/or sexual assault of children), and I refer to these articles as the scumbag news. Invariably, the offender had one or more prior convictions for incidents involving violent assault (and sexual assault IS a violent assault). Also, these incidents of violent assault usually involve an offender who is violating the conditions of his/her release based on a previous incident that either has not been adjudicated yet, or the offender	Thank you for your comment. 	is violating the conditions of his/her release from incarceration. I realize that criminals cannot be incarcerated forever, and incarceration is not necessarily a deterrent to additional criminal behavior. However, because criminal sentences (Including sentences for conviction of violent assaults) are very lenient in Vermont, guidelines which further reduce these lenient criminal sentences are very detrimental to the public. At least, when a person is actually incarcerated for a violent crime, he/she is being separated from the public. Because victims of violent crime are all but ignored by our criminal justice system, and because very little is done to protect the general public from inmates who have been released early based on "earned good time", the proposed guidelines for "earned good time" are detrimental to the general public. I would be more amenable to these proposed rules for "earned good time" if the criteria was more specific to state that any inmate, who violates any conditions of release, forfeits ALL "earned good time" (i.e., the "earned good time" is earned conditionally, and the "earned good time" is null and void if the inmate violates the conditions of his/her "early" release). I am not naive enough to think that public

	officials pay much attention to public comments, but public officials should not pretend that expedient measures substitute for good public policy.
Julianne Heisler	Is anyone going to be exempt from the rule?	There are a number of factors that would render an individual ineligible to earn Good Time including: life without parole sentence, day-for-day substance use program credit, work camp good time, adjudication of a major disciplinary rule violation as outlined in Department facility rules or the offender is reincarcerated from the community for a violation of release conditions (except for no-fault residence loss).

Commenter	Comment	DOC Response
Julianne Heisler	If someone who is a repeat offender for the same offense and is likely to do it again, you know, is this rule still going to apply to [repeat offenders]?	Yes, but only if the repeat offender is otherwise eligible.
Kathy	If the person didn't have any psychological treatment, or any kind of treatment in while they're incarcerated, if they still are able to get some good behavior, good time release	The Earned Good Time Law does not require eligible offenders to participate in psychological treatment.
Aliana Heisler	How many chances do offenders get if their history shows they will re-offend?	There are a number of behavior-related factors that would render an individual ineligible to earn Good Time including: having been adjudicated of a major disciplinary rule violation as outlined in Department facility rules or the offender is reincarcerated from the community for a violation of release conditions (except for no-fault residence loss). However, the behaviors must be committed in order to render an offender ineligible for earned good time. Anticipated behavior does not disqualify an offender from earning good time.
Mark Kramer	Offenders convicted of sexual assault or murder should not eligible for this program. Regardless of time served, they have not, and never can, "repay their debt to society," or more pointedly, their debt to their victim.	Thank you for your comment. The Department of Corrections filed a rule that complied with the law.

Commenter	Comment	DOC Response
Shana Blanchard	This program should not be made available to violent or sex offenders. PERIOD. People make mistakes and land themselves behind bars all the time. Those offenders should be allowed to earn time off their sentence. As I believe it makes for a potentially more successful release back to the community. Violent offenders and sex offenders haven't made a mistake. Those crimes are exactly who they are despite how they behave behind bars. No amount of programming changes people who offend in such ways. They walk the walk and talk the talk just to get through it. The man who offended against me certainly did not give me a chance when he continued to beat me while I lay unconscious. Why should he be given a chance to reduce his sentence, programming or not? Victims, like myself fight very hard to ensure that the person who offended against you is given a sentence they deserve. I know that the sentence will not last forever and unfortunately they will be released. I know that the man who offended against me is going to kill someone and/or will come looking for me. The longer he stays incarcerated the safer our community is. It is a slap in the face to know, as a victim that the person who offended against	Thank you for your comment. Amanda Farley	This ruling should not apply to those that pose a threat to victims being charged with sex abuse or anything resulting in physical harm, if there is no statute of limitations for the crimes then how would it serve the victims, letting violent offenders off early? When some sentences are a slap in the face to victims already with reduced sentences. Also holding prisoners for lack of bail, when you are trying to reduce the numbers, not to mention not releasing prisoners without proof of housing, if a prisoner served his or her time, holding them on a contingency seems unethical when the prison guidelines prevent those inside from being able to obtain housing unless the said landlord etc is on their calling list, if said person has no outside support. Prison should not be full of those who have not been convicted or sentenced, that's what conditions of release are for, they could be sitting in jail just waiting to be heard for months or even years at the rate covid has impacted the court systems, the good time served has no impact on those sitting waiting to be convicted. Anonymous, Victim	By and large, I do not have any problems with most folks earning Good Time, incarceration is for rehabilitation in the large majority of cases – to include many people I know personally. It’s terrible when it happens but sometimes it’s the only ‘time out’ kind of thing that works to get focused time to break a cycle and get programming in. With that said, there are some people, very FEW people that this is clearly and absolutely NOT an appropriate option for. Specifically the very few individuals who have committed extremely violent crimes against others such combinations of sexual violence and homicide/attempted homicide and subsequently avoided a ‘life without parole’ sentence by accepting a plea of guilty to a sentence of ‘30 to life’ or ‘20 to life’ and so on. The families of those victims agreed to these sentences with the understanding that while there was not a life sentence, they would forgo trial since the person would have an ‘effective	Thank you for your comment. Meaning if they were 40 years old when sentenced, and took a '30 to life' sentence, they would be 70 years old when they were released – effectively a life sentence – and thus going to trial over a ' life without parole' as opposed to an 'effectively life' sentence was an agreed upon outcome. This rule ... serves to circumvent and retroactively undermine the negotiations and agreements reached for those families, essentially betraying the trust and understanding built during the pretrial and sentencing process while simultaneously shifting the effect intended upon by the Judge presiding in those case. Shifting a case from 5 years to 4 years or similar changes is understandable, however the fundamental change proposed here is so vastly different it cannot be ignored. In considering the 'Eligibility' section of this rule change, mindfulness as it relates to the underlying charge should surely be included. Language such as "Good time is not available retroactively and not available to offenders on probation or parole, offenders eligible for a reduction of term pursuant to 28 VSA § 811 , or offenders sentenced to life without parole... Paula Stewart	That is on your record, but to have no remorse or not even admit to what he did, is wrong. And now, he's gonna be able to get good time? To reduce his sentence even more? Which is already bullcrap because his time that he served for the drug charge in Florida has been added to his time here which it reduces his time for the murder. It makes no sense. Maggie Buffum	I don't support the good time rule when it comes to sex offenders. I was molested at 10 years old and the man was never charged; that was in 1990. He was charged and convicted of sexually assaulting his own son almost two decades later, and I'm sure there were other victims in between the two of us. He was sentenced to 15 years to life for his recent conviction. Why should he be allowed to get out of jail early? He will only take advantage of that to abuse more children. Nothing has changed with him over the last three decades and it won't change over the next three decades either! These monsters manage to avoid being locked up while they destroy the lives of completely innocent children. I've spent 30 years in counseling because of him, so please tell me why he should get out any earlier just for being good in jail. I understand that the jails are full of people that may deserve a chance to be released early, but sex offenders should be the exception to this new rule.	Thank you for your comment. Kelly Munger	I do NOT support this this program as stated. My particular objection is that I believe a convicted felon should serve his minimum sentence. The inmate could earn credits to reduce his maximum sentence, but not lower than the minimum. Good behavior in prison does not change the crime or bring back a murdered victim. That felon should always serve the minimum sentenced imposed by the judge after conviction by a jury. I also do not support returning inmates currently serving their time out-of-state, back to the State of Vermont. I am not convinced that it would be cost effective and believe they lost their right to remain close to family when they committed their crime. Susan Sweetser	My understanding is that the parole board was required to hear from the victim, not just not just read a statement, but hear testimony from the victim and the victims family if the victim wanted to present that testimony and the family wanted to present that testimony so that they couldn't hide from the faces of victims and their families. Based on this bill that got passed, this new Act 148, they no longer have to hear from the victims at all in person and it appears there's nothing in there to hear from the family either. They they are required to consider the victims feelings about something through written testimony but they are not required to have the victim testify. So, that's also another significant change. I'm sad that this passed. This is just an abomination because it does nothing to help victims and there was so little if any victim involvement.	Thank you for your comment/question. My mother's killer under this rule could get something close to 25% of his time reduced – for a heinous, cold blooded, and violent action for which the person has shown little remorse. Our understanding is that in the plea bargain the prisoner agreed to a minimum – guaranteed minimum – in exchange for pleading guilty and avoiding the possibility of life without parole. It's not clear to me at all that under this program he might serve less than that minimum. I understand the part of not being automatic, but you need to take more into account the various aspects – deterrence, punishment and not just incentivizing good behavior. At a minimum, a differentiated scale should be included along with stronger language on the conditions for actually applying any potential time reduction. Have stated this in 2 different ways in hopes you can comprehend that a remaining sentence with programming to be completed should be started so the inmate can earn good time and have programming complete to actually reduce incarceration time. This should be a priority for the Department of Corrections and enforced to help reduce sentences. There needs to be a reason for holding an inmate past their earned good time date. Example if an inmate has to take 6 months of programming and has a sentenced of a year remaining the DOC must be held accountable to get that inmate into that program with a view of a maximum of 84 days of earned good time could reduce that inmates sentence and make certain that that inmate was in the ordered program to benefit from earned good time. The DOC must be held accountable to certain standards and timelines for each inmate. Otherwise what does any of this benefit anyone if the DOC can just keep the inmate from getting into programming with earned good time in view especially when that time is short and was through no fault of the inmate that his/her programming ran past earned good time release date. Robin	I feel like this is a, a kind of a no-brainer, it it just feels that there's not a whole lot of incentives besides being thrown in isolation, there's not a lot of incentives that inmates have to feel that they have a reason to kind of comply. So the idea that there's some kind of an incentive to give them extra time to think about the choices that they make and the time that they're spending paying their price that they are. I think, a really good incentive and has nothing but positive benefits for the staff that work there and for the inmates and for us as a state as we try to limit and reduce the numbers of those that are incarcerated. I hope that this is not retroactive. So, I can't imagine every day is not a good day that you're incarcerated, and I know that it's not meant to be, they're there paying a price, but at the same time, I feel like we have to consider the human side, the cost side and so many other factors in this.	Thank you for your comment/question. Heidi Henkel	I am fully in support of this rule. It would give an incentive for people to participate in rehabilitation programs while incarcerated, reduce the length of time people are in prison, and reduce overcrowding, hopefully allowing more ... prisoners to stay in VT. I used to teach math in probation and parole. Not currently. I saw that people who participated in rehabilitation and education tended not to reoffend. Anything in that direction is a good thing. Joann Winterbottom	1. We feel strongly that when the good time rule was being considered, victims and/or survivors should have been consulted and should have participated in the decision making process. They deserve that courtesy and the respect of having their opinions taken into account. 2nd point, learning of this law, after it was adopted along with the impersonal by email and detached method of notifying us added grievous insult to grievous injury. 3rd, while we understand and support the need for nationwide prison reform, we strongly object to it's application to rapists and murderers. The state of Vermont should be ethically and judicially obliged to honor our contract with [the state's attorney's office]. The good time program, as it would apply to Montgomery, is revolting. It sickens us, saddens us, and makes us feel re-victimized.	Thank you for your comment/question. The law, as passed by the Vermont Legislature, applies to sentenced offenders with limited exceptions. The rule as filed complies with the law in this regard. The issue you raise has been brought to the attention of the Legislative Committees responsible for passing the law. The Legislature is currently working on a bill that could modify the earned time program based on feedback from victims. Ned Winterbottom	So we reiterate and reaffirm the comments we previously made in regards to the emergency rule. Both at the so-called public comment hearing and the subsequent written comments we submitted on that proposed rule and we incorporate them by reference into our comment on this rule. We strongly object to the adoption of any "emergency rule" in respect to earned good time as it applies to currently incarcerated offenders. It is our position that the proposed rule violates the provisions of the Vermont Administrative Procedures Act, as set forth in 3 VSA, section 840 (unclear) The rule as proposed was not an emergency rule as in any proper sense of the term. 3 VSA Section 844a requires that an emergency rule be based upon an imminent peril to health, public safety or welfare. 3 VSA section 844 D2 requires an emergency rule contain a signed statement explaining the nature of the imminent peril to public health, safety or welfare. As we stated in our previous comments, there was no emergency in this case. The incarcerated offenders to which this rule would be applied were not going anywhere nor was any emergency regarding conditions of their incarceration. We submit that the reason the emergency rule does not contain the required statement of the nature of the imminent peril to	Thank you for your comment. The Department of Corrections filed a rule that complied with the law. Thank you for your comment. The Department of Corrections filed a rule that complied with the law. A bill to address this issue is being discussed in the legislature. If the bill passes, certain people will no longer be able to earn time if they were convicted prior to the bill becoming law. The bill contains several disqualifying crimes, including sex offenses. 	public health, safety or welfare is because no such imminent peril in fact exists. The use of an emergency label should not be used to deprive victims of crime of the right to have a meaningful opportunity to express their views on earned good time and that is exactly what was done in this case. It is our position that the entire process involved in considering the application of earned good time to currently incarcerated offenders was in fact undertaken and conducted without consideration of the views of affected victims. The statement about the proposed rule that "making irrelevant, relevant information available to victims in support of their empowerment and hearing is of paramount importance to this rule," is a hollow statement. Nothing in this process has empowered victims and rather than supporting healing it has done precisely the opposite. We feel strongly that earned good time should not be applied to potentially shorten shorten the plea bargained minimum sentence of the violent sexual offender and murderer who brutally raped Laura and took her life. We feel strongly that if a rapist in Vermont is actually sentenced to prison, they deserve to be there and they deserve to serve out the full sentence they received. This is especially true for repeated

Such offenders should be required to serve out the full minimum sentence they received, without reduction. Justice for victims and survivorsand the protection of the public demand nothing less. if you look at the legislative history, there was not one bit of input at all, for anybody who is a victim or anybody who represented victims, the best that can be said is that the legislature was focused on the issue of presumptive parole and other issues related to prison reform and they did not focus on this issue and they did not consider the view of victims, that's very clear from the record and we strenuously object to the way, the way that was done and we think it should be reconsidered.

Justin Graham	Really frustrating that our voices couldn't be heard before it was already being essentially put into place. The proposed rule removes a portion of the sole remedy that was available to us, which as the victims of violent crime, without any consent on our part, I'm sure we're not alone in feeling ... that the incredibly difficult decisions we struggled over for months and years regarding the offerings of plea arrangements is being [un]done. Our agreement indicated there would be no opportunity for early release, the crime was violent, it was ugly, it was with a baseball bat and it's kind of untenable for us that that those agreements that were already really difficult choices to make can then simply be undone under an amendment. The legislation effectively undoes those agreements and does nothing to protect the victims from being victimized once again. And I think it leaves us all wondering who the law is intended to benefit. Is it intended to benefit violent criminals? Is it intended to benefit the state's finances? It's clearly not intended to protect the public and victims of violent crime.	Thank you for your comment/question. The Department of Corrections filed a rule that complied with the law. I haven't seen it in Vermont Digger, I haven't seen it in Seven Days, I happened to see a little bit on WCAX today about this meeting and the comments from the victims, but I'm really concerned that the public really doesn't know what's going on and that these violent criminals are going to be released in back into your state and I would think that a lot of them would be interested in what's going on, not after the horse is already out the barn. I think these news organizations should be sent letters to the editors and try to get this out to the public so that they know what's going on.	Thank you for your comment/question. Alaina Heisler	Will victim voices make any impact on if an inmate will be part of this rule?	Thank you for your comment/question. A major purpose of the public comment period is to ensure victim voices are included in legislative decision making regarding the rule. A bill to address comments raised during this public comment period is being discussed in the legislature and could change the eligibility for offenders who had already been sentenced.
Pam Fontaine	We're on that victims service so that we get notifications when we need to know what's going on with the inmate and we weren't notified until late October. What happened to all of the months in between? because I do not believe that murderers, rapists, any sexual offender at all, any person that hurts or harms other people, should be eligible for this rule. Now or ever. I don't know who put this together, whether it was just not thought about well or things were missed, it's still no excuse [for] us people not [to] have been notified way before now to be able to help with making sure the rule is put in place correctly.	The Emergency Earned Good Time Rule was filed 8/30/2020 with the first (of two) public comment periods scheduled for 10/26/2020. The first LCAR hearing was scheduled for 10/19/2020 so there was not a lot of time that passed between when the Rule was filed and the notifications were sent. Victim notification is recognized as a critical, and central, part of this Rule. How victim notification was to take place was given a great deal of thought and care with consideration and input of those who most directly serve victim needs.
Kathy	it sounds like if this new ruling does pass then this inmate will be getting out next year. And, I'm really scared. I don't understand why this is happening. Could anybody give me some clarity? How about if someone is actually in hospice right now?	The Earned Good Time Rule will apply to anyone who is otherwise eligible; hospice is not a factor in eligibility.

All offenders qualify to earn Good Time except for those that are serving life-without-parole sentences, those supervised on probation or parole, those earning Work Camp Good Time credit, and those receiving day-for-day substance treatment credit. There are also a number of factors that would render an individual ineligible to earn Good Time including that the offender has been adjudicated of a major disciplinary rule violation as outlined in Department facility rules or the offender is reincarcerated from the community for a violation of release conditions (except for no-fault residence loss). The legislature is close to passing an amendment of the earned time program. Joan and Bill Kirby	Dear Anne On behalf of our son, Kristopher Kirby, we would like to weigh in on the Good Time Served Rule. Kris was sentenced before the rule will go into effect and will have served 11 months by January 10. At the time of sentencing the understanding was that he would be eligible for furlough 6 months prior to the end of his full sentence of 18 mo. With the new Good Time Served Rule, we are concerned that the 6 mo. furlough option will go away, leaving Kris in jail for the full 18 mo. , with no recourse. We are hoping the law will allow his original agreement to be grandfathered in, so he will still be eligible for furlough at the end of the 12 months. By all accounts, Kris has been an exemplary prisoner. Thank you for considering his situation.	The legal status of Reintegration Furlough was repealed as of January 1, 2021 when earned time became effective. Vermont Department of Corrections
Earned ~~Good~~ Time Rule

I. Authority

This rule is adopted pursuant to 28 V.S.A. § 818 which states that the Department of Corrections shall implement a program of earned ~~good~~ time, and the Vermont Administrative Procedures Act, 3 V.S.A. §§ 800 et seq.

II. Purpose

The purpose of this rule is to ensure the earned ~~good~~ time program implemented by the Department complies with the standards identified in 28 V.S.A. § 818(b).

III. Program

A. Definitions

1. Month: is defined as a calendar unit of 28-31 days, proration of which will be determined through the Department of Corrections' Sentence Computation Unit.
2. Proration: is the method used to determine earned ~~good~~ time for eligible offenders who are incarcerated for a portion of the month. Proration is applied only for offenders who begin their sentences part way through the month.

B. Eligibility

1. Sentenced offenders, including those on furlough, are eligible for earned ~~good~~ time beginning January 1, 2021. Earned ~~good~~ time is not available retroactively, and is not available to detainees, offenders on probation or parole, offenders eligible for a reduction of term pursuant to 28 V.S.A. § 811, to offenders sentenced to serve an interrupted sentence, or offenders sentenced to life without parole.
2. Offenders serving a sentence for a disqualifying offense (see IV.B.2. below) on January 1, 2021 will not be eligible for earned time.

C. Criteria

Offenders will be awarded earned ~~good~~ time for each month they meet both of the following criteria:

1. The offender has not been adjudicated of a major disciplinary rule violation as outlined in Department facility rules. "Adjudicated" rule violations do not include pending violations, or violations that remain subject to appeal rights.
2. The offender is not reincarcerated from the community for a violation of release conditions. Offenders who lose their residences through no fault of their own, however, shall not be deemed reincarcerated under this provision and shall remain eligible for earned ~~good~~ time.

IV. Term Reductions

A. Amount

Offenders who meet the eligibility criteria shall earn a reduction of seven (7) days on the minimum and maximum sentence for each month during which the offender adheres to such criteria.

B. Exception

1. An offender receiving post-adjudication treatment for a substance abuse disorder in a residential setting is not eligible to earn a reduction of seven (7) days each month, but shall earn a reduction of one day on the minimum and maximum sentence for each day the offender receives the inpatient treatment.

2. An offender serving a sentence for a disqualifying offense on the effective date of this rule, shall not earn any earned time reductions after the effective date.

Disqualifying offenses are:

- a. murder in violation of 13V.S.A. §2301;*
- b. voluntary manslaughter in violation of 13V.S.A. §2304;*
- c. kidnapping on violation of 13V.S.A. §2405;*
- d. lewd and lascivious conduct with a child in violation of 113V.S.A. §2602, provided that the offense shall not be considered a disqualifying offense if the offender is under 18 years of age, the child is at least 12 years of age, and the conduct is consensual;*
- e. sexual assault in violation of 13V.S.A. §3252(a) or (b);*
- f. aggravated sexual assault in violation of 13V.S.A. §3253; or*
- g. aggravated sexual assault of a child in violation of 13V.S.A. 7§3253a.*

C. Calculation

1. The Department will calculate and award earned ~~good~~ time to offenders, as provided in 28 V.S.A. § 818(b)(2), for each month they meet the criteria listed in Sections III and IV, above. The Department will assess earned time awards each month following the prior month served. The Department will not assess earned time for partial months served by offenders whose minimum or maximum release dates fall on or before the last day of the month.

2. The Department will apply a calculation rubric of proration (see Earned ~~Good~~ Time Prorate Chart, below) that equitably awards earned ~~good~~ time in whole days based on the number of incarcerated whole days for offenders whose sentences begin in the middle of the month. ~~who are incarcerated for less than the whole month (i.e., fewer than 28 days).~~ This proration does not apply to offenders whose minimum or maximum release dates fall on or before the last day of the month. This rubric applies the 7-day/month formula established by 28 V.S.A. § 818.

Earned ~~Good~~ Time Prorate Chart

Eligible offenders can earn up to 7 days of Earned ~~Good~~ Time each month on their minimum and maximum sentence. Prorated Earned ~~Good~~ Time will be determined by the number of days per month earned.

# days incarcerated (includes furloughs) per month...	1-9 days	10-18 days	19-27 days	28-31 days
# days on minimum & maximum sentence	2	4	6	7

D. Notification

1. Offender Notification

No less frequently than every 90 days, the Department will provide notice to the offender of any earned ~~good~~ time reduction to the offender's term of supervision.

The Department will document and record all such reductions in each offender's permanent record monthly.

2. Victim Notification

The Department will maintain a victim-accessible system of information on earned ~~good~~ time sentence reductions. The Department will ensure that all victims of record are notified of the earned ~~good~~ time program and of their right to access information on earned-~~good~~-time-related changes to offenders' sentences. Victims may choose to decline access to such information.

V. Considerations

A. Out-of-State Offenders

Offenders serving Vermont sentences in out-of-state facilities can earn-~~good~~ time under the same process as if they were housed in a Vermont facility, as long as they are otherwise eligible pursuant to the requirements set out in 28 V.S.A. § 818(b).

B. Minimum Release Eligibility

Offenders earning-~~good~~ time credit on their minimum sentences are eligible for release on the new minimum date. They are not automatically released on the new minimum date.

The Department will apply a calculation rubric of proration (see Earned Time Prorate Chart, below) that equitably awards earned time in whole days based on the number of incarcerated whole days for offenders whose sentences begin in the middle of the month. This proration does not apply to offenders whose minimum or maximum release dates fall on or before the last day of the month. This rubric applies the 7-day/month formula established by 28 V.S.A. § 818.

Earned Time Prorate Chart

Eligible offenders can earn up to 7 days of Earned Time each month on their minimum and maximum sentence. Prorated Earned

Time will be determined by the number of days per month earned.

days incarcerated (includes furloughs) per month...	1-9 days	10-18 days	19-27 days	28-31 days
days on minimum & maximum sentence	2	4	6	7

D. Notification

1. Offender Notification

No less frequently than every 90 days, the Department will provide notice to the offender of any earned time reduction to the offender’s term of supervision.

The Department will document and record all such reductions in each offender’s permanent record monthly.

2. Victim Notification

The Department will maintain a victim-accessible system of information on earned time sentence reductions. The Department will ensure that all victims of record are notified of the earned time program and of their right to access information on earned-time-related changes to offenders’ sentences. Victims may choose to decline access to such information.

V. Considerations

A. Out-of-State Offenders

Offenders serving Vermont sentences in out-of-state facilities can earn time under the same process as if they were housed in a Vermont facility, as long as they are otherwise eligible pursuant to the requirements set out in 28 V.S.A. § 818(b).

B. Minimum Release Eligibility

Offenders earning time credit on their minimum sentences are eligible for release on the new minimum date. They are not automatically released on the new minimum date.

No. 12. An act relating to limiting earned good time sentence reductions for offenders convicted of certain crimes.

(S.18)

It is hereby enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Vermont:

Sec. 1. 13 V.S.A. § 5321 is amended to read:

§ 5321. APPEARANCE BY VICTIM

(d) At or before the sentencing hearing, the prosecutor's office shall instruct the victim of a listed crime, in all cases where the court imposes a sentence that includes a period of incarceration, that a sentence of incarceration is to the custody of the Commissioner of Corrections and that the Commissioner of Corrections has the authority to affect the actual time the defendant shall serve in incarceration through ~~good~~ earned time credit, furlough, work-release, and other early release programs. In addition, the prosecutor's office shall explain the significance of a minimum and maximum sentence to the victim ~~and shall also~~, explain the function of parole and how it may affect the actual amount of time the defendant may be incarcerated, and inform the victim of the maximum amount of earned time that the defendant could accrue and that earned time only affects when a defendant is eligible for parole consideration but does not necessarily result in the defendant's release.

Sec. 2. 28 V.S.A. § 818 is amended to read:

§ 818. EARNED ~~GOOD~~ TIME; REDUCTION OF TERM

(a) On or before September 1, 2020, the Department of Corrections shall file a proposed rule pursuant to 3 V.S.A. chapter 25 implementing an earned ~~good~~ time program to become effective on January 1, 2021. The Commissioner shall adopt rules to carry out the provisions of this section as an emergency rule and concurrently propose them as a permanent rule. The emergency rule shall be deemed to meet the standard for the adoption of emergency rules pursuant to 3 V.S.A. § 844(a).

(b) The earned ~~good~~ time program implemented pursuant to this section shall comply with the following standards:

(1) The program shall be available for all sentenced offenders, including furloughed offenders, provided that the program shall not be available to offenders on probation or parole, to offenders eligible for a reduction of term pursuant to section 811 of this title, to offenders sentenced to serve an interrupted sentence, or to offenders sentenced to life without parole.

Offenders currently serving a sentence shall be eligible to begin earning a reduction in term when the earned ~~good~~ time program becomes effective.

Notwithstanding this subdivision (1), when an offender has been convicted of a disqualifying offense, the offender's ability to participate and earn time in the program shall be determined pursuant to subdivision (5) of this subsection.

(2) Offenders shall earn a reduction of seven days in the minimum and maximum sentence for each month during which the offender:

(A) is not adjudicated of a major disciplinary rule violation; and

(B) is not reincarcerated from the community for a violation of release conditions, provided that an offender who loses a residence for a reason other than fault on the part of the offender shall not be deemed reincarcerated under this subdivision.

(3) An offender who receives post-adjudication treatment in a residential setting for a substance use disorder shall earn a reduction of one day in the minimum and maximum sentence for each day that the offender receives the inpatient treatment. While a person is in residential substance abuse treatment, he or she shall not be eligible for ~~good~~ earned time except as provided in this subsection.

(4) The Department shall:

(A) ensure that all victims of record are notified of the earned ~~good~~ time program at its outset and made aware of the option to receive notifications from the Department pursuant to this subdivision;

(B) provide timely notice not less frequently than every 90 days to the offender any time the offender receives a reduction in his or her term of supervision pursuant to this section;

(C) maintain a system that documents and records all such reductions in each offender's permanent record; and

(D) record any reduction in an offender's term of supervision pursuant to this section on a monthly basis and ensure that victims who want information regarding changes in scheduled release dates have access to such information.

(5) Notwithstanding 1 V.S.A. § 214, an offender who was serving a sentence for a disqualifying offense on January 1, 2021 shall not earn any earned time sentence reductions under this section after the effective date of this act. This subdivision (5) shall not be construed to limit or affect earned time that an offender has earned on or before the effective date of this act.

(c) As used in this section:

(1) "Disqualifying offense" means:

(A) murder in violation of 13 V.S.A. § 2301;

(B) voluntary manslaughter in violation of 13 V.S.A. § 2304;

(C) kidnapping in violation of 13 V.S.A. § 2405;

(D) lewd and lascivious conduct with a child in violation of 13 V.S.A. § 2602, provided that the offense shall not be considered a disqualifying offense if the offender is under 18 years of age, the child is at least 12 years of age, and the conduct is consensual;

(E) sexual assault in violation of 13 V.S.A. § 3252(a) or (b);

(F) aggravated sexual assault in violation of 13 V.S.A. § 3253; or

(G) aggravated sexual assault of a child in violation of 13 V.S.A. § 3253a.

(2) “Interrupted sentence” means a sentence that is not served continuously, including a sentence to be served in intervals or a sentence to the work crew.

Sec. 3. EFFECTIVE DATE

This act shall take effect on passage.

Rule Details

Rule Number:	20P022
Title:	Earned Good Time Rule
Type:	Standard
Status:	Final Proposed
Agency:	Department of Corrections, Agency of Human Services
Legal Authority:	Act No. 148 of 2020 § 14 and 28 V.S.A. § 818(a) This Rule reinstates an Earned Good Time (EGT) program for Vermont’s Department of Corrections’ incarcerated and furloughed offenders. Offenders on probation, parole, earning Work Camp Good Time, and serving life sentences without parole are ineligible. For each month eligible offenders that are Summary:

“not adjudicated of a major disciplinary rule violation” and are “not reincarcerated from the community for a violation of release conditions” (but for no-fault housing loss), they will be awarded up to seven (7) days of Earned Good Time credit toward their minimum and maximum sentence. Offenders receiving day-for-day inpatient substance abuse treatment post adjudication are ineligible during their treatment. The Department is obligated to record monthly EGT-related changes to offenders’ sentences, notify offenders of these changes at least every ninety days, notify victims of record of the program at its outset, and maintain a system where victims can procure relevant information as necessary.

Persons Affected:

This rule affects several people, enterprises, and government entities. The eligible offenders, their loved ones, communities, victims, and victims’ loved ones are affected. Among the enterprises affected are professional legal advocates, local nonprofit organizations such as the American Civil Liberties Union, O.U.R. House of Central Vermont, Center on Crime Victim Services, and Vermont Network Against Domestic & Sexual Violence. Finally, the government entities affected by the rule include: the Agency of Human Services, specifically the Departments of Corrections, Children and Families, Mental Health, Health Access, and Disabilities, Aging, and Independent Living as well as the Departments of Labor and Commerce and Community Development and States Attorneys and Defender General Offices. This rule affects victims who seek accurate offender release date information. Making relevant information available to victims, in support of their empowerment and healing, is of paramount importance to this rule.

Economic Impact:

This Rule will impose substantial economic impact on the DOC, especially for the Sentence Computation (SCU) and Victims Services (VSU) units. Both currently operate at, or beyond, capacity in staff hours; both will require the equivalent of 1 full-time staff member (SCU: $79,890.72) as well as the development and facilitation of training for all relevant staff. The Rule will require significantly more work associated with victim notification and supports to crime victims, yet the Department is not currently in a position to hire new staff. Therefore, current VSU and Probation and Parole staff, both already at, or beyond capacity, will be required to spend more staff hours managing victims and likely including significant overtime and delays in addressing victim-related issues.
