H.847 – An act relating to peer support provider and recovery support specialist certification

As recommended by the House Committee on Ways and Means¹

Bill Summary

The bill would require the Office of Professional Regulation (OPR) to certify peer support providers and recovery support specialists. For OPR to implement this change, it would cost approximately $25,000 in staff time, technology costs, community outreach costs, and expenses associated with rulemaking.

The bill would require that the Secretary of State appoint six advisors to the Director of OPR for matters relating to peer and recovery support. Four of the advisors would not be State employees and entitled to per diem compensation under 32 V.S.A. § 1010 for attendance at any meeting called by the Director. Costs for per diem compensation would be nominal (less than $2,000 per year). The other two advisors, one from the Department of Health and one from the Department of Mental Health, would be acting within the scope of their positions and not receive per diem compensation.

The bill would also require application and licensure fees similar to those for other professions OPR regulates. The Committee on Ways and Means' amendment would, on passage of the bill, lower initial licensure and certification application fees from $115, as currently in statute, to $50.² These fees would then increase to $75 on July 1, 2027. The bill would also set the biennial renewal fee at $50. While the true number of peer support providers and recovery support specialists in Vermont is currently unknown, based on what currently is known, estimated fiscal year 2026 revenue from application fees is estimated to be between $10,000 and $20,000. Revenue could increase in future fiscal years as more people are trained and certified in these professions.
