determine what cost share the issuers would like to attribute to that benefit. They have more flexibility. Then the nonstandard plan designs to do that. And then, the other piece of this, which I know the committee has had questions about, was the medical necessity determination. So there were questions about, what if it is a really expensive hearing aid, how will not be hindered handled. It will all be determined by medical necessity. So the health insurers will determine which hearing aids may be covered, types of hearing aids will be covered. But the benefit of self will have to cover anyone with a hearing loss. But then, like with all benefits, insurers set medical necessity determinations. So that, when they are reviewing claims, they can determine what should be a
