

A washtub full of two types of bitter gourd. An example of a crop that we would sell sporadically at the Farmers Market, but we found its true market through Vermonters Feeding Vermonters.

Baby bok choy in the field.

The Diggers at work in the field.

Setting up for spinach harvest