

Dear Representatives of the House Energy Committee:

Please do not add fees to S213 for persons of households that choose to opt out of smart meters because of concerns over cybersecurity and potential health risks.

While certainly there are some researchers who would declare there are no health concerns regarding RF Radiation, others conclude that there are health concerns regarding RF Radiation, especially for children.

Families should be able to decide which health claims are true regarding RF radiation, and should not be financially penalized if they choose to protect their families and children from RF radiation from smart meters.

Thank you for your consideration.

Best regards,

Renee McGuinness
