Title 13, Chapter 31: Discrimination

§ 1454. Statement of purpose

The Legislature finds and declares that it is the right of every person to enjoy the public peace and that sense of security and tranquility afforded by the protection of the law, and that wrongful activities motivated by hatred toward particular classes or groups of persons invade that protection. It is not the intent of this chapter to interfere with the exercise of rights protected by the constitutions of this State or the United States and the Legislature recognizes the constitutional rights of every citizen to harbor and express beliefs on any subject and to associate with others who share similar beliefs. (Added 1989, No. 172 (Adj. Sess.), § 1, eff. May 12, 1990.)

Vandalism involving swastikas under investigation in Brattleboro

By Chris Mays, Brattleboro Reformer Jan 7, 2024

BRATTLEBORO — Police officially announced they are investigating "multiple recent incidents of vandalism that have occurred in town" involving swastikas.

On Saturday, the Brattleboro Police Department issued a news release saying it received a report Dec. 23 that "someone had spray painted what appeared to be a hate symbol (swastika) on a mural in the Harmony Lot, as well as another location on Estey Street." A similar report was made Saturday about the gazebo (handstand) at the Esteville Common on Estey Street, police said.

More racist graffiti mars Upper Valley

Eric Brown, left, and Luke Russ, right, of the Vermont Agency of Transportation, take time out from a ditching project to cover up a racial epithet spray painted on Route 14 in East Bethel, Vt., on Tuesday, Nov. 14, 2023. They plan to return with gray graffiti cover-up paint when they have the resources for a lane closure due to the paint's long drying time. (Valley News - James M. Patterson) Copyright Valley News.
