Yield Bill Policy Choices

- The Yield Bill determines how to raise funds for the Education Fund after accounting for all uses and non-property tax revenue streams.
- Funds can be raised through other revenue sources, homestead property taxes, and/or nonhomestead property taxes.
 - This is a policy choice
- The following list of questions aims to provide some context for a policy conversation but is in no way exhaustive.

Yield Bill Decision Points

- Non-property tax revenue:
 - Should one-time money be used to lower property taxes?
 - Should the Education Fund's current-law non-property taxes be changed?
 - Should there be new non-property tax revenues added to the Education Fund?
- Property tax revenue:
 - How much should be raised on homestead property tax and how much should be raised on nonhomestead property tax?
 - Should the average bill change be the same for homestead and non-homestead property taxpayers? Should homestead and non-homestead see a differing average bill changes?
- Income sensitivity decisions:
 - How should the property tax credit (PTC) be calculated for the following fiscal year? Should the average bill change be the same as homestead property tax?
 - Should the property tax credit earned in fiscal year 2025 (appearing on fiscal year 2026 bills be adjusted)?
- Other decisions
 - Should any funds be reserved for future fiscal years?
